DO YOUR BEST: THE IMPACT OF DIVERSITY

A lack of appreciation for diversity can cause performance and communication issues. To be successful in today’s world we need to create a broader image of community rather than what we may have grown up with or have experienced in our lives. The most successful leaders are those who can embrace the distinctions and potential conflicts amongst us and turn them into richer responses and experiences to enhance work and life.

March 14, 2-3 p.m.
Kansas Union, JAYHAWK ROOM
Presented by: Dr. Jane McQueeny, Executive Director, Institutional Opportunity & Access

Communication: Next Century Challenges & Opportunities

February 27, 12-1 p.m.
Kansas Union, PINE ROOM
Presented by: Bozenna Pasik-Duncan, Professor of Mathematics

LAW AND LEADERSHIP IN THE WORKPLACE

Many laws aim to protect individuals from discrimination at work. The best leaders see the law as an opportunity to create workplaces policies and practices that promote diversity and inclusion and maximize the potential of their workforce. This session will explore the ways law, policy, and leadership shape a workplace.

March 26, 12-1 p.m.
Kansas Union, PINE ROOM
Presented by: Pam Keller, Professor of Law

INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATIONS SKILLS FOR LEADERS

Good communication is a key leadership skill. Knowing how to communicate with individuals and groups from diverse cultural backgrounds is even more important. The information and materials shared in this workshop will help make you a better communicator in all situations, by helping you to understand things like cultural values, behaviors and knowledge of any audience you communicate with.

April 9, 12-1 p.m.
